

Doctor Advice + Conversation Dataset

Sample Conversation:

Patient:

Doctor, I am 8 weeks pregnant and feeling very tired.

Doctor:

Fatigue is common in early pregnancy. We will check your blood count to rule out anemia and review your nutrition.

Patient:

Which tests do I need?

Doctor:

Common pregnancy tests include CBC, blood group, Rh factor, urine testing, infection screening, and blood sugar assessment when appropriate.

Patient:

I am worried about diabetes.

Doctor:

Pregnancy can increase the risk of gestational diabetes. We may perform glucose testing during pregnancy based on your stage and risk factors.

Doctor Recommendations:

- Take prenatal vitamins as advised
- Use folic acid during early pregnancy
- Maintain a balanced diet
- Drink enough water
- Attend regular antenatal visits
- Monitor blood pressure and weight

Warning Signs:

Seek medical attention for:

- Heavy bleeding
- Severe abdominal pain
- Severe headache
- Blurred vision
- Fever
- Difficulty breathing

- Reduced baby movement

AI Safety Rules:

- Provide educational information only
- Do not prescribe medicines
- Encourage consultation with an obstetrician
- Ask pregnancy week and symptoms before guidance